This 98 m² weighted apartment (80 m² of living space and a spectacular 35 m² terrace-garden) offers an unusual way of living in the city. Located in a 1929 building, it combines character, spaciousness, and outdoor areas.

It has double access, both from the street and from the building entrance hall with a foyer, providing comfort and versatility. The heart of the home is a living-dining room with an open-plan kitchen, a fluid and welcoming space that opens directly onto the terrace/garden, perfect for everyday enjoyment.

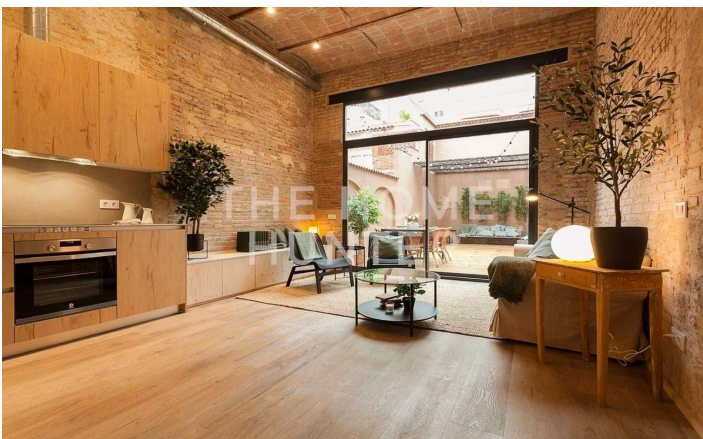

It has three bedrooms, two of them doubles, and a generously sized bathroom. In addition, there is an interior patio, which adds natural light and ventilation.

The 4-meter-high ceilings enhance the feeling of spaciousness, while custom-made furniture and wardrobes optimize every corner with aesthetic coherence. Double-glazed Climalit windows and radiator heating ensure comfort and efficiency.
